JFL Japanese Scheme of Work for primary schools - JSOW

<http://www.jpfl.org.uk/language/jsow.php>

Year 3

- Unit 2: Omedetoo (Congratulations)

Year 4

- Unit 7: Trip to Japan
- Unit 10: Sport

The scripts that are used for JSOW

- For reading or writing activities, specific kanji, hiragana or katakana are used.
- For oral activities, the Japanese words and phrases to be learned are written in romaji (roman letters).
 - Long vowel sounds are written as aa, ii, uu, ee, oo.

Goals related to the Japanese scripts and reading

- By the end of Unit 6 (Year 3), children are expected to understand that
 - 1) Japanese has different writing systems compared with English,
 - 2) there are three systems and
 - 3) each hiragana letter is linked with one sound.
- Children begin reading letters and words during Year 4 (Units 7-12).

Let's write names in Japanese!

- First, transform the sounds of the name into Japanese sounds.
- Find katakana from the katakana table.

How to transfer English sounds into Japanese sounds

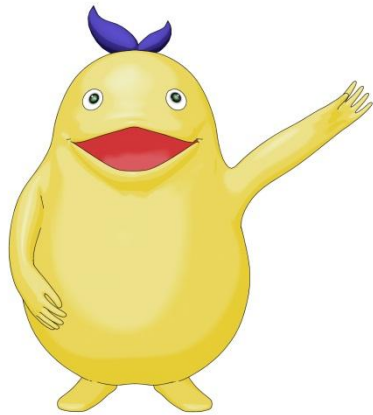

- Vowels and consonant + vowel→list
 - If it's not on the list, search for something that sounds similar
 - Maxim→Makusimu
 - Thomas→toomasu
- Consonants
 - T and d are followed by o
 - Other consonants are followed by u
 - Tom→to mu
 - No “L” letter in Japanese→”R”
 - Bill→bi ru
- If you have time, write your friends' or family's names!

Portal for Learning Japanese

A screenshot of the NIHONGO e! website interface. The header features the site's logo and the text "Portal for Learning Japanese". The main content area is divided into several sections. On the left, there is a "Site search" section with a grid of buttons for "Reading", "Writing", "Listening", "Speaking", "Grammar", "Vocabulary", "Kana", "Kanji", "Tool", "Dictionary / Translation", "Culture / Society", and "Other". Below this is a section for "nippon.com" with a description of its multilingual resources. On the right, there is a section titled "e! Kore" with a question "I'm having a hard time figuring out how best to study Japanese..." and an answer that refers to an article "How are YOU studying Japanese?". Below this are three more article teasers: "Survival Japanese for travellers to Japan!", "Conversation practice you can do alone: Lang Media/Japanese in Japan", and "How do you spell 'Michael Jordan' in Japanese?". The bottom right corner has a link for "List of articles". The website has a light blue and yellow color scheme with a city skyline and stars in the background.
