Japan Foundation London Language Centre, Russell Square, London

Feedback from 2006 course participants:

"The course was an absolutely fabulous experience and a real confidence boost."
Primary School Teacher, Bath

"Excellent quality of teachers – very patient and attentive. Meeting other interested participants and sharing was wonderful." Secondary Language Assistant, Wales

This intensive CPD course aims to develop participants' Japanese language skills in order to improve confidence in teaching basic Japanese, and to provide tips on study skills for Japanese. It is suitable for:

- Non-native speaking primary and secondary teachers with basic to upper intermediate Japanese (up to level 3 of the Japanese Language Proficiency Test). As a minimum level of Japanese, you should be able to read all hiragana and katakana.
- Teachers currently teaching Japanese; teachers with the opportunity to offer Japanese at their school.

Participants will be divided into two classes, depending on Japanese level. Classes will include language learning sessions featuring a wide range of activities. There will also be specific sessions using Japanese teaching resources designed for use at UK schools, such as CHIKARA resources for GCSE Japanese and Ready Steady NihonGO! aimed at Key Stage 2.

Course tutors: Yoko Udagawa and Shoko Middleton (Japan Foundation London Language Centre); Mitsuko Tominaga and Keiko Kelly (SOAS, University of London).

Application Deadline: Friday 13th June 2008
