IMPORTANT INFORMATION:

As of April 2015, the book loan service for Full Members has been resumed although our library is still closed due to our relocation to a temporary office. Unlike the previous library there is no space for a reference area, so we are unable to receive visitors to our office without prior appointment for receiving materials. While we are located at the temporary office, the reference service for Reference members has been suspended.

For any enquiries related to the library, please contact Japanese Language Resource Officer Naresh Varma at naresh.varma@jpf.org.uk

The screenshot shows the Japan Foundation London website. The main heading is 'Japanese Language'. Below it, there are navigation tabs for 'Arts & Culture', 'Japanese Language', 'Japanese Studies & Intellectual Exchange', and 'Library'. A sidebar on the left contains a 'Japanese Language Navigation' menu with items like 'Home', 'What's On', 'Primary Japanese Campaign', 'Funding', 'News', 'FAQs', 'Courses & Events', 'Teaching and Learning Resources', 'Exams', 'Teaching Jobs', 'Private Tutors', 'Japanese Taster for Schools (JTS) Programme', 'UK schools teaching Japanese', and 'Links'. The main content area is titled 'UK schools teaching Japanese' and features a link to 'List of Primary, Secondary and Sixth Form Schools that Teach Japanese'. A red arrow points to this link in the sidebar.

Case studies of UK schools teaching Japanese

NEW! St Edmund Campion Catholic Primary School, Maidenhead

Pupils at St Edmund Campion Catholic Primary School study Japanese, Latin, French, and Spanish. In 2014-2015 Japanese was the main language studied by Year 4 and Year 5, a total of 105 children. The children have responded very positively to learning Japanese. They look forward to their weekly class and actively participate in lessons. The school also received positive feedback from parents who have enjoyed learning Japanese from their children. Click here to read the full case study.

Hartley Primary School

Hartley Primary School has been teaching Japanese as part of the creative curriculum since 2013. These classes are very much pupil-led, with the children deciding what they would like to learn each week. Click here to read the full case study.

Luton Sixth Form College

Japanese was introduced into Luton Sixth form in September 2011 for a class of enthusiastic sixth formers during lesson time, and also for pupils from the surrounding secondary schools as an after school class. Students have been working towards the Asset Languages Breakthrough exams and have worked together to create a fantastic Japan related website for the Japan Webpage Contest for Schools. Click here to read the full case study.
